- 1. Claim 1-108 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 251 as being an improper recapture of broadened claimed subject matter surrendered in the application for the patent upon which the present reissue is based. See Hester Industries, Inc. v. Stein, Inc., 142 F.3d 1472, 46 USPQ2d 1641 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Clement, 131 F.3d 1464, 45 USPQ2d 1161 (Fed. Cir. 1997); Ball Corp. v. United States, 729 F.2d 1429, 1436, 221 USPQ 289, 295 (Fed. Cir. 1984). A broadening aspect is present in the reissue which was not present in the application for patent. The record of the application for the patent shows that the broadening aspect (in the reissue) relates to subject matter that applicant previously surrendered during the prosecution of the application. Accordingly, the narrow scope of the claims in the patent was not an error within the meaning of 35 U.S.C. 251, and the broader scope surrendered in the application for the patent cannot be recaptured by the filing of the present reissue application.
- 2. The applicants' errors in the specification represent merely typographical errors suitable to a Certificate of Correction and do not justify a reissue application. As to claiming a memory medium in claim 46, the storing of a program or data on disk, tape, etc. was as common as mud on a rainy day at the time of applicants' invention. While such a modification to the scope of applicants' original claims might justify filing a reissue, the claim is still directed to the original invention and broadening the scope of claim 46, as acknowledged by applicant, by specifically dropping language which describes the function in the means plus function claim language of claim 1 and other language of claim 1 reciting specific, material limitations, both of which were argued as part of applicants' justification for distinguishing over the prior art (see paper no. 22 of the original application), is recapture. Dropping the same material limitation from applicants' other independent claims is also recapture. Also, applicants' original means plus function claim language is far narrower than the broader language, such as CPU, of claim 48 and is also recapture. Since applicant has failed to establish an appropriate error and allowable claims based on that error, the original claims are forfeit, too.
